

FACTS WANTED INSTEAD OF TALK

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The continued murder of American citizens in Mexico is attracting widespread comment at the national capital. More than one rhetorical "gun" has been fired on the floor of the House in the past few weeks against the "vacillating policy" of the administration in its dealings with America's southern neighbor. The Mexican ambassador to the United States, Ignacio Bonillas, who has returned to this country after a month's absence, has just issued a statement in which he said that he had found "vastly improved conditions" in Mexico, and that many of the murderers of Americans have been executed for their crimes. He also said he was going to ask the United States to allow the sale of guns and ammunition, supplies and airplanes. The fact that the state department has not made public any correspondence within the past four months telling of such executions has brought sharply replies to Ambassador Bonillas' statement. Representative Fawcett H. LaGuardia of New York, who has been leading the fight in the House for the publication of the records of the state department regarding the relations of the United States with Mexico made a statement in which he said:

"The ambassador confirms then that our Americans have been murdered. It would be indeed incredible to the American people to hope to secure any dates of execution of these murderers. It is impossible, impossible to hear constant reports of successive being murdered, but no news of information as to what is being done. The Mexican government has taken a long time to get this information. It is indeed impossible to note that the ambassador is going to get the United States to permit the sale of guns, ammunition and supplies to Mexico and even his requests for the purchase of airplanes. Why does Mexico need airplanes, just now? When guns and ammunition are sent into Mexico, I hope that Americans will at least be permitted to get some of these and to arm themselves against outrages upon them. It will go to the Mexican ambassador to say that the embargo on arms and ammunition be lifted entirely."

BAKER HELPED BUILD I. W. W.

Incidental to his charges of gross inefficiency in the conduct of the aircraft bureau under the war department, Charles R. Sligh, a Grand Rapids furniture manufacturer, declared before the congressional committee investigating the scandal that Secretary Baker did not use his influence against I. W. W. disorders in the lumber camps of the northwest. Not only that, he averred that Baker even went so far as to telegraph officials in charge of the lumber situation in the northwest to grant the demands of the I. W. W. This was after these lawless elements of civilization had caused a reign of terror by strikes and sabotage at the very time honest and patriotic men were shedding their blood for the country.

Baker's conduct was in harmony with that of Secretary of Labor Wilson, who countenanced the Denmore infamy of the Mooney case, wherein Denmore, an official of the department, ment of labor, endeavored to help Mooney escape the consequences of his murderous dynamite crimes. Secretary Wilson shielded his "red" subordinate, who is a relative, and refused to order him back to San Francisco to testify before the grand jury.

Thus the labor secretary encouraged I. W. W.ism and anarchy. And thus the administration, through its agents, coddled and fostered it.

The wind was sown in leniency to I. W. W. in trials throughout the country and in senseless and unjust failure of federal judges adequately to punish I. W. W. found guilty of sedition.

And because of that sowing of the wind the country is now reaping the whirlwind of various manifestations of Bolshevism—Sacramento Rev.

DEATH PENALTY TO KEEP DRY

(By Associated Press.)
DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 15.—Though death has been the penalty pronounced by General P. Elias Calles, governor of Sonora, Mexico, for the making and selling of liquors in that state, public sentiment was so strongly against the decree that while arrests were being made in other parts of the state in the capital, Hermosillo, recently liquor never was more plentiful nor cheaper than prohibition first went into effect in 1915.

Americans reaching here recently from Hermosillo said they were being sold at $25 a case of six pints and tequila was selling at $5 a quart.

Not long ago, fifty cases of 600 bottles of tequila, seized in all parts of Sonora, were publicly destroyed. The liquor was poured into the gutter in front of the governor's palace. Americans who witnessed the destruction said that a number of pints were on hand with cures and when the liquor was poured into the gutter, scooped up enough to get riotously drunk.

During the period when the death penalty was in force until it was repealed early in July, not a single execution had taken place.

Adolfo de la Huerta, the governor-elect, and the state congress are reported to be prepared early in September when they take office, to put in effect a law reopening saloons in Sonora for the sale of light wines and beer. At present there are a number of buildings in Agua Prieta, Naco and Nogales, Sonora, being remodeled for saloon purposes.

Mr. de la Huerta is said to have been approached recently by representatives of the people of the Alamos and Sahuarita district or counties with the petition that the manufacture and sale of mesquite distilled from the Maguey, a species of cactus, be permitted.
